

You,

The benefit described in this material is available only as a feature on eligible permanent life insurance products issued through The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company and its wholly owned subsidiaries, The Penn Insurance and Annuity Company and The Penn Insurance and Annuity Company of New York. This material must be accompanied by the brochure for the underlying product.

It's always better to be prepared.

Most of our permanent life insurance policies come with a built-in feature called the Chronic Illness Accelerated Benefit (CIAB) Rider, which lets you access a portion of your policy death benefit in the event you suffer a chronic illness or severe cognitive impairment.¹ It's included at no upfront cost and requires no additional underwriting.

While using the rider will reduce your policy death benefit and cash values, it's a valuable feature intended to help you and your family reduce the financial impacts of a chronic illness.

You, Stronger.

Your financial professional is here to help you become financially stronger today, so you don't have to spend your time worrying about tomorrow.

¹This benefit is automatically included on most permanent life insurance policies issued through The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, The Penn Insurance and Annuity Company and The Penn Insurance and Annuity Company of New York, subject to underwriting amount and certain eligibility requirements. Rider availability and features may vary by state. This rider is not part of the NY LTC Partnership program. NY residents, please see page 4 for additional information.

What exactly is chronic illness?

It's important to note that chronic illness can happen at any age — and can result from an illness or sudden accident. Specifically, a condition is considered a chronic illness if for a period of at least 90 consecutive days, the insured:

- Is unable to perform at least two of the following daily activities: bathing, transferring, dressing, eating, continence and toileting, or;
- Requires substantial supervision by another person to avoid injury or harm due to a severe cognitive impairment.

When can I use the rider?

You are eligible to use the rider when a U.S. licensed healthcare practitioner has certified that in the last 12 months the insured has been chronically ill.² The healthcare practitioner must also certify that continuous care in an eligible facility or at home is expected to be required for the remainder of the insured's life. Please note on Survivorship policies, the rider may only be exercised after the first death.

To help you make an informed decision about using the rider, ask your financial professional to provide an illustration that shows how consecutive years of accelerated benefit payments will impact your policy.

How can the rider help?

Unlike long-term-care insurance, there are no restrictions on how the rider's accelerated benefits can be used. For example, the rider can be used to help with medical expenses, pay for a caretaker or housekeeper or cover the cost of needed home renovations. And, you can choose a lump sum, annual, semi-annual, quarterly or monthly payouts depending on what works best for your situation.³

We don't provide tax advice, but we do help coordinate benefits from all sources to help ensure the accelerated benefits taken fall within certain IRS limitations and will qualify for favorable tax treatment. Consult your personal tax advisor prior to using the Chronic Illness Accelerated Benefit Rider.

²The healthcare practitioner must not be the policy owner, insured, beneficiary or a relative as defined in the policy. Your financial professional can provide details about excluded relatives.

³The maximum amount that may be accelerated from a policy is $5 million. Amounts available annually are subject to policy limits and IRS calendar year limits.
